About RewirEd Talks

RewirEd Talks is open to anyone, anywhere, where we encourage literally everyone – students, parents, teachers, educators, school leaders, businesspeople and government officials among others – to participate in the conversation because the future of education is everyone's business.

RewirEd Talks aims

RewirEd Talks aims to involve people of all ages and backgrounds from around the world, by encouraging them to host bold and challenging conversations on education. The main goal is to generate conversations that will help reshape education.

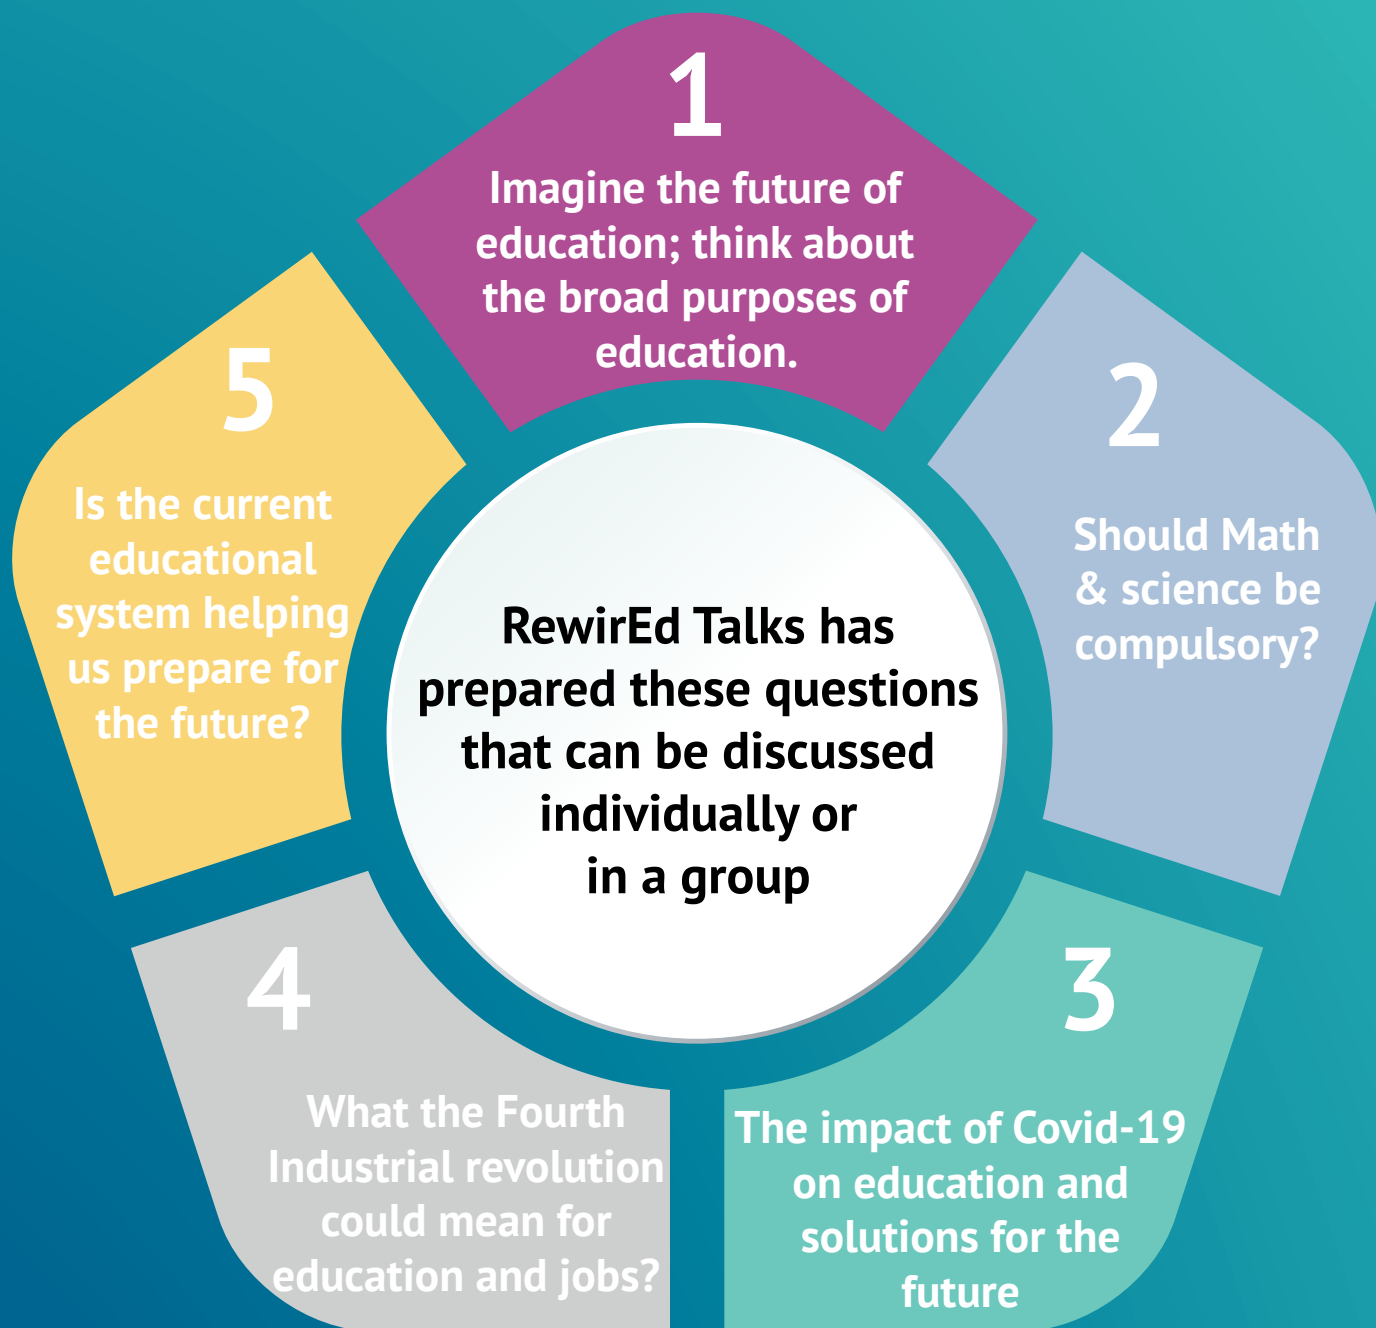

Why Does it matter?

Help us catalyse global conversation on how education and learning need to be address the challenges of today and prepare for tomorrow.

What can be discussed at RewirEd Talks?

These are a few guiding questions that participants can bring up in their discussions. We would appreciate it if participants raise more questions that are directly affecting education and learning.
